Case-study partnership approach: Nestlé

Virtual event: Nestlé Global - A Climate Progress Update

Nestlé has partnered with IF to launch their regenerative agriculture strategy, their living income strategy and the Nescafe 2030 strategy, amongst others. In this example, we co-created and hosted a virtual event to update stakeholders on their 2023 Climate commitments. Together, we designed an agenda that featured a keynote presentation, case studies, and a live Q&A. The event received 2,365 registrations, 1,012 live attendees, and 147 questions.

Stakeholder Engagement Workshops

Nestlé has partnered with Innovation Forum to test and validate sustainability strategies with key stakeholders before launch, gaining valuable feedback on topics from regenerative agriculture to human rights. This process helped Nestlé identify pressing issues, refine its strategy, and build lasting stakeholder relationships. Innovation Forum's workshops offer organizations a platform to validate initiatives pre-launch, ensuring credibility and impact through expert stakeholder engagement.

Conference sponsorship

Nestlé has leveraged Innovation Forum's conferences—particularly the Scope 3 series and Commodities and Landscapes Forum—by curating sessions, hosting side events, and sponsoring main-stage discussions to elevate key initiatives.

"Innovation Forum has organized stakeholder panels for some of Nestlé most iconic brands. We have highly valued Innovation Forum's subject-matter expertise in different fields of sustainability and its efficiency in delivering the panels for us smoothly end-to-end."

Partnering with Innovation Forum is a consistently positive experience for Quantis. Working with Anita and her team is a joy, and the events continue to be a priority for us to sponsor and attend. At every event, we're certain to engage in quality content, develop connections with industry leaders, and deepen relationships within the community. The return on investment is clear for us through the partnerships and opportunities that arise from each event

Nassy Avramidis

US marketing lead

We all really enjoyed the event. Especially the panel format and that no one used slides throughout the event. I think the size of the event was perfect too. It gave you plenty of opportunity to speak to a good group of people.

Saskia Hornivius

Market development manager- circular packaging

I was looking to network, have a honest overview of other parts of the industry, and get inspired. I really liked the open format, without slides and lots of time to ask questions, giving the audience the opportunity to contribute to each session.

Monica Ordegno

Global future of packaging strategy manager

Altruistiq proudly sponsors the majority of Innovation Forum's events each year, and for good reason. To us, Innovation Forum consistently stands out as the most reliable platform in the industry. Every event delivers insightful, actionable content that leaves us feeling like we've gained authentic insights from major brands—something we can't always say about other industry events.

From a sponsorship perspective, Innovation Forum ensures we never have to worry about ROI. The quality of attendees is consistently high, and each year we meet new people within our target audience that we wouldn't encounter elsewhere. The forum masterfully curates its agenda to balance educational panels with ample networking opportunities that foster genuine connections. It never feels transactional or dominated by vendors; instead, everyone arrives eager to engage in meaningful discussions.

Innovation Forum is the only event company in this space that we can rely on year after year. Anita and Ruby make the sponsorship experience seamless, keeping us informed and always aligning the event with our business goals. Anita, in particular, goes above and beyond to ensure we get the most out of our sponsorship package, taking the time to truly understand our company and stakeholders, so our involvement feels tailored to each event.
